Hi, I was twittering with someone from rapportive today. I noticed 2 weird things on rapportive that I'd like more info about including how the location was set and the dates, for these users if possible. I attached 2 screenshots.

1) I was Moneygramming money to Vietnam to pay a contractor for Java web development I found through vworker.com (but was paying directly upon his suggestion) - I installed rapportive and saw this user was from Max, Minnesota and also his avatar was of Osama Bin Laden! I did report this to the FBI in person, by calling, and also on the online tips system twice. Not sure if it's related but I was involuntary committed to a mental hospital in Philadelphia a few days after this on 9/29 with no internet access for 20 days. I was physically dragged and put in restraints because I wouldn't agree to be committed. I thought I was sane and didn't want to be there for the whole 20 days.

2) A user that has blocked me on twitter because I stopped following her after she asked for $10 to buy some food has their location set as 'East Coast Statistical Area, Chatham Islands'. It's not there anymore, but I have a screenshot. This user blocked me a couple weeks before I was committed, and I had an interview with the FAO organization today for a job. A former coworker asked me if I wanted to join her in working for the FAO in Italy on 6/21, the same day this user started following me. I wasn't interested initially, but after I got out of the hospital I sent her my resume. If you search that location it looks like it is a FAO site. Unrelated, but I did send her a donation of $10 after I got out of the hospital.

Ok, thanks, I am curious and you have alot of data I guess. Your software is very surprising - I wish I had it installed from the very beginning and maybe I could have avoided this injustice.

Andy

Hey Andy,

Thanks for getting in touch,

The photo of the first account came directly from Hi5 — though I notice that that user account has been suspended (http://hi5.com/friend/p12276717--Hang\_Huy--html). I imagine it was someone having a joke — it's so hard to tell on the internet...

The location on the second profile came via Rapleaf (<http://rapleaf.com/>), and unfortunately they don't tell us where they got that information from (we've since stopped using them as a source, which is why the location disappeared from @SandwichPolice yesterday).

Due to the automatic way we collect information we can't guarantee that it's accurate, though we do try hard — I'd recommend trying to verify information you see on Rapportive, particularly if it has important real-world consequences.

Please let me know if you need anything else,
Conrad
